Cities of Valley Seek Solution of Sewage Problem

Seventy-five men, representing a dozen communities in county sanitation district No. 7, met in the city hall at Alhambra Friday night and outlined plans for a campaign to put the district into the Metropolitan sewer system, a proposition which failed to carry at a special election which was held January 26. It is generally conceded that the undertaking, which carried a bond issue of $4,400,000 to finance it, failed because of the indifference of the people rather than organized opposition. Less than twenty per cent of the voters went to the polls. To overcome this handicap it is tentatively planned to hold the next election at the same time the primaries are held in August, when it will be possible to get out a much greater percentage of the vote.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE
A. E. Stockburger, city manager of South Pasadena, was elected as chairman of the meeting, and will head a campaign made up of representatives of every community in the district, which will be organized at once to carry on an aggressive fight for the bonds between now and the election six months hence. This committee will hold its organization in the San Gabriel city hall February 17th.

The meeting was attended by marked enthusiasm and determination to put it across at the earliest date possible. A. K. Warren, county sanitation engineer was present, and explained that legal difficulties of a nature which could be cured only by legislation made it impossible to form a new district to take in only such communities as had voted in favor of the proposition.

PLAN NEW ELECTION
General discussion in which Mr. Stockburger, J. L. Matthews, president of the associated chambers of commerce of the San Gabriel valley, Frank M. Colville, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Monterey Park, F. H. Varcoe, also of that city, M. H. Irvine, city manager of Alhambra, and others presented a comprehensive symposium of opinion on the question which was held in the district. The boundaries of district No. 7 be preserved intact and an effort made to carry it into the Metropolitan system as soon as another election could be legally held. This motion was adopted unanimously. It was followed by another motion by Mr. Matthews to name a committee with a representative from every community in the district to conduct a vigorous fight to put the proposition over. The proposal to hold the election at the same time as the primaries was made in the belief that it would make it possible to get out enough "yes" votes to put the proposition across.

NOTED ENGINEER TO REPORT
Mr. Warren explained that his problem, which presented some difficulties, was the correlation of the plans of the southern districts which have already voted for the Metropolitan sewer, to the delay which the failure of district seven to carry the bonds had occasioned. He gave assurance, however, that his office was ready to co-operate to the greatest extent possible to enable district No. 7 to go into the Metropolitan system.

Mr. Warren announced that X. H. Goodenough, for twenty years sanitation engineer in the state board of health of Massachusetts, and widely recognized as one of the greatest authorities on ocean disposal as well as other forms of sewage disposal, had been engaged to make a report on the plans for the Metropolitan system. This report, which will be available within a few weeks, it is believed will concur in general with the opinion of other eminent engineers of the Pacific coast who have gone over and endorsed them.

The board of control of the district, which is made up of the president of the board of trustees in each of the municipalities and a member of the county board of supervisors, will meet in Ardenia Wednesday night, February 10, to canvass the returns of the last election and discuss plans for the future.

LEGION AND AUXILIARY
VIEW FIVE-REEL PICTURE

The American Legion, the auxiliary and their friends enjoyed a five-reel war picture, "America's Answer," last Monday evening, which was given at the Presbyterian church. After the picture, the party went down to the Stone Lantern, where refreshments were served.

MEETING IN FAVOR OF
SEWER BOND ELECTION

A meeting of representatives from the different cities in the Metropolitan sewer district No. 7 was held in the city hall, Alhambra, last Friday evening, with about seventy-five in attendance. The meeting was enthusiastic and the sentiment strong in favor of putting a bond election before the voters again at the fall primaries. J. L. Matthews and J. Jorgensen represented the Covina chamber of commerce.

Miss Rachael Collins, Miss Helen Marshall, Mr. Roy Brookhart and Mr. Lance Crampton were guests of Mrs. W. E. Brookhart in Redlands on Sunday.

LAST RITES HELD
FOR L. T. GRAVES

The funeral services for Mr. L. T. Graves, a former resident of East Puente street, whose death occurred last week in Pasadena, was held on Tuesday afternoon from the undertaking parlors of Turner & Stevens of Pasadena. Several of his friends from Covina attended the services. Mr. and Mrs. Graves have many friends throughout this valley and their sympathies are with the bereaved widow.

Mrs. Coman Gives Book Review for Meeting of Club

An anticipated event in the calendar of the Woman's club is the annual book review given by Mrs. Mary M. Coman. This review was no exception, the well-filled auditorium Monday afternoon bespeaking the hearty appreciation of the club members. Mrs. Coman reviewed several books of fiction—"The Peasants" (Ladislav Reymont), "The White Monkey" (Galsworthy), "Soundings" and "Caravan" (A. Hamilton Gibbs), "The Perennial Bachelor" (Parrish), "Drums" (James Boyd), "The Wind Blows" (Donna Byrne), "Arrowsmith" (Sinclair Lewis), and "The Professor's House" (Willis Cather).

In biography, "From Immigrant to Inventor" (Michael Pupin) and "From Pinafores to Politics" (Mrs. J. B. Harriman) were touched on. "Gold of Ophir" (The Greenbriars) and "Forty Years of It" (Brand Whitlock) dealt with political history. "Beyond the Unsettled Purple Rim" (Powell) and "Temple Belas" (Silver Sails) (Enders) told of travel. In the religious realm, "The Discovery of God" (Basil King) was given, and "Youth in Conflict" (Dr. Marian Van Waters) for the child welfare. Several juvenile stories were discussed, and three books of poetry, "Cipriana" (Mrs. Guy Bush), "Wellesley Verse" (Katherine Lee Bates), and "The Fate of the Phantom Yacht," by our own Bingham T. Wilson.

Mrs. Coman spoke highly of Mr. Wilson's book, stating that he had been able to write a story in rhyme and keep up a sustained interest; that Covina should be proud of an author who possessed this exceptional ability.

Mrs. Leta Nash Pinckney, who is dear to the hearts of Covina, for her charming personality as well as her wonderful voice, opened the program with a group of songs by Cadman, "The Robin Woman's Spring Song," "Memories," and "I a Nightingale." At the close, she gave "A Birthday" (Woodman) and "Dreaming Time" (Lillie Strickland). She was accompanied by Mrs. Harry Damerel.

The business meeting was opened by a silent, standing tribute to Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale, past-president of the federated clubs, who died last week. On recommendation of the board of directors, the sum of ten dollars was set aside towards a memorial room in the contemplated office for the federated clubs to be known as the Eleanor Joy Toll room.

The stockholders' meeting, which had been announced for the 8th, was postponed until Saturday, February 20th.

A call was made by Mrs. E. G. Prather for flowers, shrubs and trees which the flower section will plant at Irwindale at its next meeting, on the 19th.

Mrs. William Warren announced that Mr. O. Minnett would be the speaker at the patriotic program to be given on the 22nd; also a pageant, "The Evolution of the Flag," would be presented. This is an open meeting at which all patriotic societies of Covina will be guests.

Protest Closing
of Canyon While Building Dam

The directors of the Angelus Forest Protective association have unanimously gone on record as opposed to the closing of the San Gabriel canyon to the public for a period of eight or ten years, during the building of the large dam at the Forks.

This action was taken at the February meeting of the directors held on Tuesday of this week, following a rumor that Engineer Reagan of the county flood control department was arranging for the immediate closing of the canyon. George Cecil, federal supervisor of the Southern California reserves, who was present at the meeting, stated that there was no desire on the part of the federal government to close the canyon during the construction of the dam, in fact he had already made arrangements with the county board of supervisors, upon hearing of the probability of the closing of the canyon, for the transportation of his men at all times for fire fighting and other purposes.

"The closing of the canyon," said Mr. Cecil, "is entirely in the hands of the board of supervisors." The closing of the San Gabriel canyon during the construction of the dam would constitute a loss of thousands of dollars to this section of Los Angeles county, and would retard growth of the foothill cities of Azusa and Glendora during that period.

It will take probably ten years to construct this, the largest dam of its character in the world, and during that time millions of eastern tourists will have come to Southern California, a large percentage of whom would desire to see this colossal feat of engineering construction. To deny them this privilege would be a serious mistake and an unwarranted obstruction to the growth of the San Gabriel valley. To direct the attention of the tourists to this valley we must offer them attractions, and an inspection of this great dam while under course of construction would be offering them a sight which could be seen in no other portion of the world.

Any effort to close the canyon to the public will be met with the same objections.

At the meeting on Tuesday there were a number of prominent forestry men present, including George Cecil, federal supervisor, M. B. Pratt, state forester, Professor Woodbridge Motcalf, extension forester of the University of California, County Forester Tuttle of San Bernardino county, and Chief Dunlap of the Los Angeles county fire department.

Six Cars Wrecked
at Bassett Station

In a series of accidents on the Valley boulevard at Bassett Saturday afternoon and Sunday, six cars were wrecked and five persons seriously injured, one of them possibly fatally.

At 12:40 p.m. on Saturday a large gravel truck owned by the Sycamore Canyon Gravel company of Whittier attempted to cross the main line of Southern Pacific tracks just ahead of the Golden State Limited, which struck it, tearing the truck to pieces and spilling sand for 100 yards or more. The engine of the train was derailed, the pilot turned under, the water line broken and damaged to such an extent that it was necessary to send for another engine to continue the run. The damaged engine was towed back to Los Angeles.

The driver of the truck stated he failed to see the train and when it was upon him he jumped clear of the accident. He was considerably bruised but not seriously injured.

At almost the same location Sunday night four automobiles ran together and five persons were seriously injured.

$300,000 DIVERSION CUT FOR SAN DIMAS CANYON

Plans for a $300,000 flood diversion channel to serve the San Dimas district, and to be a part of the Puddingstone project, are announced.

The engineer disclosing Reagan's plans is C. E. Lee. The project will start with a 26-foot concrete core, dirt surfaced dam near the Bright ranch and then follow a channel along the natural course known as the high bank, under the Foothill boulevard, thence down a line midway between Ramona and Artesia avenues to the Carrion ranch, where it will empty into the Puddingstone reservoir.

The channel will be concrete lined, 15 feet wide at the bottom, with 45 degree angled walls. It will have a capacity of 5000 second feet. Plans are drawn and construction will be started soon.

With only three wheels instead of the usual four, a roller skate which weighs only fifteen ounces has been invented in England.

Chronology Being Written of Covina Valley Pioneers

Mrs. Pardon Head has been busy recently gathering statistics for the national chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution regarding the pioneers of San Gabriel valley. This record will be filed for reference at Washington, D. C. The following chronology will be of interest to residents of the valley:

Mrs. Louise L. Hutchinson was born in Southern California, her father, Nelson Williamson, having been sent out in 1851 by the government to build Fort Tejon. Mr. Williamson came to the San Gabriel valley in 1862-63, when there were but five families in the valley, leasing and subleasing land from the Dalton estate, which was a grant from Governor Alvarado extending from the San Gabriel canyon to the San Jose hills. In this connection it is interesting to note that Mr. Dalton started a large coffee plantation, bringing in a Mexican by the name of Badillo as foreman. Mr. Hollenbeck bought the coffee plantation, which, proving unsuccessful, was dug up and the land planted to vineyards.

Charles T. Blanchard came to California in 1851, settling in Covina in 1898. He married the eldest daughter of Daniel Houser, who crossed the plains with her parents in 1862.

Daniel Houser and his wife reached California in 1862. Five of the large family of ten children came across the plains with their parents, and five were born in northern California. Mr. Houser settled on a ranch at the corner of Citrus and Cypress avenues in 1885. He was a pioneer in the Brethren church and left his home ranch to the church to be used for missions. Seven sons and daughters still reside in the San Gabriel valley.

Edgar R. Coffman became a resident of northern California in 1861. Mrs. Coffman's people crossing the plains with an ox team in '53. Mr. and Mrs. Coffman settled in Covina in 1876.

G. W. Lee planted his feet on the Pacific coast as early as 1858, finally settling in Covina in 1877. Mrs. Lee followed in 1863, and was one of the early graduates of Santa Clara college.

Daniel Reichard reached California in 1868, settled in San Gabriel in 1874, and bought a ranch near Covina in 1876. Mrs. Reichard accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgin, around the Horn in 1872.

J. B. Elliott accompanied his uncle, J. L. and William Daugherty, from Texas when a small boy, settling with the family at El Monte. He came to Covina in 1868.

T. F. Griswold left Wisconsin, coming direct to Covina, where he settled on his home place at Citrus site had been purchased for him by his brother, E. C. Griswold, who came to the valley three years prior.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Eckles settled in Santa Ana in 1876, moving to Covina in 1881. Mrs. Eckles states that the community was without a name and a number of ladies decided upon the word Covina as typical of the cove or valley and the vineyards that covered a large portion of the cultivated area.

George Olney, who came to Covina in 1911, was the son of Augustus Olney of Rhode Island, who made the trip around the Horn in '49, his mother crossing the Isthmus in 1851.

Mrs. Head will be glad to get in touch with other pioneer families. The copy of the records covering Southern California will be sent, when complete, to a library, presumably the Los Angeles library, for reference.

Chandler Easy Car to Lubricate

Automobile manufacturers have so perfected their product nowadays that an owner may tour for days without even touching the car except for water, oil and gasoline.

Nevertheless there comes a time when he must get busy or see that someone else does. "Chandler engineers have discovered this inevitable time by constantly overcoming some necessary point of adjustment under the car," says Mr. A. E. Harnish, local Chandler dealer.

"Today any woman, who has not the mechanical knowledge to oil a sewing machine, may start on a long trip with perfect confidence of reaching her destination without trouble. "Chandler engineers have recognized the fact that nothing could be of more importance than to reduce to a minimum the necessity of wrench work and out of the way lubricating points," continued Mr. Harnish.

"The 1926 Chandler is evidence of their earnest endeavor to make the car not only powerful and economical in respect to upkeep, but also as carefree as possible.

"A simple turn of the valve on the left side of the motor drains the motor of oil, doing away with one of the meanest duties in connection with the care of a car.

"There is a great tendency for motorists to buy a quart of oil, occasionally, at the filling station," said Mr. Harnish. "This means that they do not drain the old oil off. It's too much trouble on the usual car. Therefore, their motor never really gets clean oil."

"Chandler owners have learned better. They run their full filling of oil thousands of miles, and then drain the oil off with the handy Chandler oil drain, and their motor is constantly protected with perfectly clean oil."

The world's largest electric shovel which has gone in action in the ore fields of Pennsylvania, takes twelve tons of earth at one bite.

Rowland Noted Figure of South in Olden Times

By OTHEMAN STEVENS
William Richard Rowland is dead. The present is considered the halcyon days of Los Angeles, but there are a few remaining contemporaries of "Billy" Rowland who know that, despite the great wealth now here, the immense profits being made, the myriad potent factors for culture and ease, the real golden days were in the olden times, the era when "Billy" Rowland gallantly made his conquering campaign with fortune and progress.

Mr. Rowland was born at Puente in 1846, the son of Don John and Dona Encarnacion Martinez Rowland.

On July 12, 1871, he married Dona Manuela, daughter of Don Isaac Williams of El Rancho del Chino and Dona Jesus Villanueva de Williams.

SURVIVED BY WIDOW
His widow, and two daughters, Mrs. C. T. Toland and Mrs. E. C. Moore and two grandchildren, William Rowland Moore and Helen Moore, survive him.

Mr. Rowland's kindness, sincerity of character and manly qualities gained him the distinction, always a sure sign of general esteem and respect, of being known throughout California as "Billy" Rowland.

This familiarity of a diminutive was in no way due to lack of dignity, for while invariably affable and companionable, there was always about him that dignity and poise that comes from ancestors of distinction.

In 1871 he was elected sheriff, the times then making that a most difficult and hazardous office.

He faced the perils of his position with the calm courage of a grandee, and startled the whole state one day by capturing the most noted bandit of that era, Tiburcio Vasquez, who had long ravaged the entire southern part of the state.

SEEKS AND FINDS OIL
Mr. Rowland was among the first, if not the first, to seek oil and find it.

In 1885, with Burdette Chandler, he began boring on his estate of the Puente ranch and after several fruitless efforts, found oil, formed the Puente Oil company, probably the first successful Southern California corporation in that business.

Of polished manners, not voluble but a delightful comrade, "Billy" Rowland was a loved contemporary of Tom Rowan, "Wally" Estudillo, L. B. Rose, J. de Barth Shorb, and the other mighty men of his era.

It was the custom in those days for the various manor lords to give fiestas. On such occasions when Mr. Rowland invited his friends to his ranch, the last one was given about twenty-five years ago.

Mr. Rowland secured a special train from John A. Muir, then superintendent of the Southern Pacific in Los Angeles, and for twenty-four hours the Rancho del Puente was the scene of merriment and splendor of entertainment not capable of duplication now.

Every man of social, business or other note in Southern California and many from other parts of the state attended this fiesta, an event which will always be remembered by the few who have not passed beyond.

THOROUGH AMERICAN
A thoroughbred American in every characteristic, "Billy" Rowland maintained through his life those grand seigneur traits which marked the great souled men of his era; the men who made this California what it is to day by gallantly placing the foundations firmly for the imperial structure of statehood that California has become.

Lions Club Plans to Produce Play

The Lions club, under the management of A. Schornagle, is making plans to produce a play about the first of April, which will include in its cast representatives from the different towns in the San Gabriel valley as far east as San Dimas, and extending from Puente to Azusa. It is anticipated that the chambers of commerce and civic bodies will boost the play, as the proceeds will be used to establish an elaborate advertising booth at San Francisco during the national convention of the Lions, to occur in June.

Not only will oranges be featured, with free orangeade, but walnuts, lemons and other agricultural products from this section of the San Gabriel valley will be featured, together with a plentiful distribution of literature. Covina, West Covina, Baldwin Park, Charter Oak, Puente, Azusa, Glendora and San Dimas will all participate.

Pacific Electric Laying New Rails

Replacement with heavier rail of 14.7 miles of inbound track between Valley Junction and Vineyard, near El Monte, is a Pacific Electric track improvement shortly to be begun. Entailing an expenditure of $290,000, D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the railway, yesterday stated that 90-pound rail would replace the 70-pound previously used on this section, which is a part of the main line to San Bernardino.

Garfield avenue and San Gabriel boulevard crossings are to be repaved with asphalt macadam and grooved girder rail used at these intersections. All other intersections enroute are also to be improved, and about 25 per cent of all ties replaced.

Increasing volume of freight traffic and use of the company's heaviest class of passenger equipment, the 1200-type, was given as reason for the heavy expenditure.

EIGHTY YOUNG MEN MEET IN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION

Over eighty young men of the high school age met in a union meeting at the Masonic temple Sunday morning, under the leadership of the Rev. Joseph Ainley, leader, and Jim Reed, president. Rev. C. S. Reynolds, assistant pastor of the First Methodist church of Monrovia, addressed the class. A quartet from the Methodist class gave several selections.

The Business and Professional Women's club will meet next Monday night in a 6:30 supper at the Palace of Sweets. Plans will be formulated for entertaining the district officers in March.

Clarice Miller, Jennie Goodrich, and Helen Gordon will be delegates from the Girl Reserve organizations of the high school at a convention at Long Beach on February 13th, 14th, and 15th.

MARY B. EYRE ADDRESSES PARENTS AND TEACHERS

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted Dr. Eyre Tuesday afternoon when she addressed the grammar school Parent-Teacher association on "The Mental Hygiene of the Child." She was followed with rapt attention as she explained why "mental hygiene" was the attempt to prevent causes of irritants to little children, whose delicate nervous systems are so susceptible to every impression. If children have certain fears, parents are advised to find out what those fears were based upon, root them out early and strive to give their children a sane outlook on life. If children are ever ignored as a punishment, care should always be taken to have them reinstated later on. They love to be recognized and praised. Parents should provide the proper environment for their children, and be models themselves, then let the children live their own lives. The speaker explained the new "habit clinics" which are being established in several states.

Dr. Eyre was accompanied by Mrs. Ernest J. Jaqua, wife of the acting president of Pomona college. Grade four, under the supervision of Miss Oelrich, gave an exceptionally fine flag drill and the school orchestra, which is doing such splendid work under Miss Arthur's guidance, rendered patriotic music in the main hall during the social hour, when cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Morlan and her efficient committee, Mrs. George Motter and Mrs. Ralph Pollard.

Mrs. J. K. Ingalls, the popular president of the P. T. A., is to be congratulated on the growing interest shown at these helpful monthly conferences, which are based on the book, "The Child: His Nature and His Needs."

College Problems

The small college finds it hard to remain small nowadays. With the overwhelming of the state universities by the onrush of students during the past five years, the attractions of the small institution have been brought into bolder relief. The result is that many of the old-line colleges have been forced in self-defense to limit their enrollments. Otherwise they would soon be swamped by the applications for admission.

But the mere fixing of a maximum size for the freshman class, or for the undergraduate body, does not solve any of the larger problems of educational progress. Harvard imposed a limit two years ago, but not with an expectation that it would be permanently maintained; it will doubtless be lifted whenever that action seems possible and advisable. Limitation of numbers may be justified as a makeshift but not as an ideal. It means, for any institution that adopts it permanently, a slow but sure recession of influence upon educational life of the country as a whole. Everything else will keep on growing, and hence the constituency of the institution will become relatively smaller as the years go by. This is a fact which ought not to be disregarded when the future of any college is discussed.

The number of young men and women who seek a college education is growing. It is growing at a more rapid rate than the increase of population, and in all human probability will continue to do so. If the existing universities and colleges cannot, or will not, take care of this increase, there will have to be a considerable setting up of new institutions. But that is just what many educators, including experts of educational foundations, are anxious to see avoided. New institutions of collegiate grade usually have a hard time of it during the first few decades of their existence—getting endowment, getting teachers, building up a library, and establishing sound traditions. How often have we been assured by educational investigators that there are already too many weak institutions in most of the states, and that the cause of education would be better served by half the number if they were twice as strong!

Pomona college seems to have hit upon a promising way of dealing with this general problem of reconciling limitation with growth—a plan of collegiate federalism. At first glance one might call it an adaptation of the Oxford system, but the resemblance is on the surface only. What the Pomona plan actually embodies is an endeavor to apply, in collegiate organization, the principle of federalism combined with local autonomy which has become familiar to us in the governmental structure of the nation and also of the separate states. And with an analogous end in view, namely, to gain the strength that comes from union, while conserving the values which are derived from a large measure of local independence, initiative, and neighborhood rivalry.—Boston Transcript.

Federal Aid for Highways

The recent pronouncement of President Coolidge concerning federal aid for highways has naturally caused widespread comment in the west, where the matter is one of the first importance. While the president's intimation that he regards governmental aid as a temporary expediency seems like a discouraging note to some, the general attitude of close highway observers is one of optimism and encouragement because of the emphasis he has placed on the value of primary highways.

The president's recommendation that the federal government be concerned only with aiding in the construction of highways acknowledged to be of primary importance is in accord with the present policies of the California highway commission, and in accord with general policies which have been advocated for many years by the Automobile club of Southern California.

It would seem to be a sound policy that the nation should participate in the construction of highways which would be of national benefit; that the state of California should expend its state funds solely for main highways connecting with each other and with county highways; and that a county should be chiefly interested in the construction of roads of general benefit to the whole county.

Chairman Harvey M. Toy of the California highway commission, who is also vice-president of the All Western Road association, expresses the opinion that the men who most seriously advocate federal aid will not criticize the president's position. Mr. Toy says that in California federal aid is being used altogether on the great traffic arteries leading through the state and on important connections with other states.

This is, only in a measure, true in other western states, but the general policy declared by the president may be expected to lead to a beneficial revision of some western highway programs. Some highways which are largely local in their service are not likely to participate, but on the other hand there would be an acceleration of interstate highway construction. This would mean the nationalization of highways to a greater extent than now.

Far from being a discouraging note, the president's message seems to point the way more clearly for the western states to act aggressively on behalf of a continuance of federal aid. With the facts generally known, it will be recognized both in the east and in the west that federal aid in building highways is profitable to all the people. It is therefore highly desirable that national executives and others understand all that is involved, and the western states may properly become active in making these facts known.

In support of a continuance of federal aid on the present basis, or even larger, it could well be pointed out to Washington that roads which make accessible national parks and forests should be designated as primary in national importance, whether or not they form parts of interstate or transcontinental highways. These great parks and forests, largely located in the west, are assets of all the people, and all the people should share in the responsibility of developing them by means of highways to them. Interest in the national parks is rapidly increasing. Each year sees a big gain in the number of visitors. It is a situation of national concern and one that should be treated on an equitable basis through the medium of federal aid wisely applied.—Touring Topics.

We understand Coach Newman is training the boys for track and baseball. Come on, boys, let the people of Southern California see that Covina cannot only play football but other sports as well.

Early Days in Covina

TEN YEARS AGO

A party of about twenty Covina people have recently formed themselves into hiking club and are planning to take a long walk each Tuesday. They start in the morning, each person carrying his own small lunch, and spend the day in a tramp in the open.

The board of supervisors Tuesday morning appropriated $1000 from the storm water emergency fund to assist the ranchers in the vicinity of Vincent street, Irwindale, in building a bulkhead that will confine the waters of the San Dimas wash. The board has also decided to take out the bridge over the wash at Irwindale.

Two years ago it damaged a large acreage by diverting the water across ranches. A large family dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Aschenbrenner last Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Yoder of West Covina, whose marriage occurred the preceding Monday in Los Angeles. Mrs. Yoder was formerly Miss Nellie Fowler and had many friends in this vicinity.

Mrs. C. H. Wedgwood entertained the Berean class Thimble club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Cienega avenue. The afternoon sewing was interspersed with vocal and piano solos.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Mitchell and family leave Thursday morning for Kansas, where they will make their future home. Mr. Mitchell has been employed by the Covina Furniture company for a number of years.

About twenty members of the Five Hundred club pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Devendorf Wednesday evening, in honor of their wedding anniversary. A light supper was served.

Ellen Beach Law will be guest of honor at the orange show on Friday, February 13, San Gabriel valley day. The famous singer will be the guest of the associated chambers of commerce of the San Gabriel valley and a court of young ladies from all the fourteen towns and communities will accompany her.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The usual quiet serenity of this peaceful community, has received a series of shocks during the past week. On Monday night thieves entered Densmore's jewelry store and carried off over $500 worth of jewelry. On Tuesday the entire town was thrown into a state of excitement by one of the most daring holdups ever attempted in Los Angeles county. Shortly after 8:30 two masked men entered the butcher shop of Madison & Kendall and held up Mr. Kendall. The robbers secured $40 in cash and $4.00 check, all of which was on the person of Mr. Kendall. They also took a gun out of the till and then made their escape. The same evening two Mexicans entered Broadwell's dry goods store and stole six pairs of pants.

The marriage of our respected citizen, John R. King, to Miss Fannie Eudora Smith, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Whittier on Tuesday evening, February 6th. Mr. and Mrs. King will reside on Cienega avenue.

Tuesday evening's train from Los Angeles was two hours and forty minutes late on account of a wash-out at Savanna.

Charles H. Harris, son of Mrs. Belle Harris, has arrived from Nebraska to make his future home here. He will make a welcome addition to the young society set.

Through the courtesy of the trustees of the Methodist church, the fire commissioners have been able to secure the use of the church bell for a fire alarm. The rope is within easy reach, twisted in a staple on the west side of the front porch. Notice is given that anyone sending in a false alarm will be prosecuted with the utmost rigor of the law.

Mr. David B. Lewis of Chicago arrived in Covina on Thursday morning and completed his purchase of the Sherman and Sanders orange and lemon groves. He left for the east again on Friday and will return later with Mrs. Lewis.

Fruit Shippers Open New House

The Covina packing house of the J. M. Riley Packing company, Dam-jer & Allison, owners and managers, opened for business on Tuesday with an initial day of three cars of oranges.

The packing house, formerly owned and operated by the Covina Heights association, has been remodelled by its new owners and is equipped to handle from two and a half to three cars of fruit a day. The house will employ about thirty women and men, exclusive of the pickers. The management states that the house will handle this year in excess of one hundred cars of fruit. This house will supplement the Azusa avenue house, which handles from three to four hundred cars of fruit each year.

1,475,913 Vehicles Registered in 1925

Official figures made public by Will H. Marsh, chief of the division of motor vehicles, at Sacramento, show that a total of 1,475,913 motor vehicles and trailers were registered in California during 1925.

Marsh announced that this was a net gain of 125,154, or 9.2 per cent, over 1924, when 1,350,759 vehicles were registered.

"This will put California second, if not first, on the list of states in number of automobiles," Marsh states.

Registrations were divided as follows: Automobiles, 1,224,887; pneumatic tired trucks, 172,280; solid tired trucks, 42,296; motorcycles, 10,997; trailers, 25,453.

All types of vehicles showed an increase with the exception of motorcycles, which have been dwindling steadily for several years. The gain in passenger cars approximated 100,000.

The next receipts of the division for the year totaled $7,816,640.40. The major part of this money will be turned over to the state highway commission and the various counties for road maintenance purposes.

During the year the division collected license fees of $2 each from 166,230 chauffeurs operating in the state.

Indicative of the rapid turnover in cars, the division's records show 795,357 transfers during the year.

GOVERNMENT PAYS $88,000 FOR FOREST FIRE OF 1924

Covering the county's share of the expense of fighting the forest fire that burned over approximately 50,000 acres of the Angeles national forest in the summer of 1924, County Forester Turner recently received a check for $88,024.18 from the federal government. The check was made payable to the forestry department of the county.

The fire of 1924 was considered one of the most serious in the county's history, and although it did not come within the jurisdiction of the county forester, the latter joined with the federal authorities in fighting the blaze in the general interest of the forest reserve and the county's water supply.

The fire burned over a period of several weeks in July and August of 1924, and according to Turner, approximately $150,000 was spent by the county and government before the blaze was extinguished.

Owing to the fact that the fire was in federal territory the county presented a claim to the government for its share of the expense. The check received was in full payment of the bill.

Thompson Creek Dam Being Built

Inspection of the Thompson creek flood control dam operations by county officers and those interested citizens reveals the project to be going ahead speedily. One visitor timed the wagons as they hauled dirt from one bankment and struck an average of one load every half-minute.

That the job is being done with surprising economy is indicated by an unofficial report that the construction of the cement core is costing the county roughly $1 a cubic yard, whereas bids which had been submitted by private contractors had specified $9 for the same work.

Two steam shovels are hard at work and a dozen wagons are busy hauling gravel. The whole project appears to be moving fast under the capable direction, it is declared by visitors. Several tunnels in the hillside just below the dam are prospect holes, abandoned after the composition of the earth at that point had been determined. A work camp has been established on the scene of activity. The cement core of the bulkwork is about three-fourths completed. The dam is being located just this side of the mouth of San Antonio canyon.—La Verne Leader.

MISSIONARY LADIES GATHER IN GEORGE PARKER

Mrs. M. P. McQuade, superintendent of the Jane Crouch Home for Japanese Girls, was the speaker at the Woman's Morn Missionary society held in the parlors of the Methodist church on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Jessie Flick, accompanied by Miss Lucile Vail, sang "Just As I Am."

Miss Maud Edwards brought renewed interest in the Peasant Pioneers to the members of the society, through her talk on the lives of these people. Mrs. T. B. Reed had charge of the devotion. Mrs. J. L. Matthews, the president, urged that all dues be paid immediately so that the money might go at once into the proper channels of the missionary work.

The foreign society, with Mrs. G. W. Aschenbrenner in charge of the program, met immediately after the luncheon hour. Mrs. Emma F. Edwards gave the lesson from the study book. Mrs. Sherman Gail sang "Just for Today" with Miss Lucile Vail at the piano.

The resignation of Mrs. J. H. Coolman as president of the Foreign society was accepted and Mrs. B. H. Moore elected to succeed her. A vote of thanks and appreciation was given Mrs. Coolman for her splendid service during the past year.

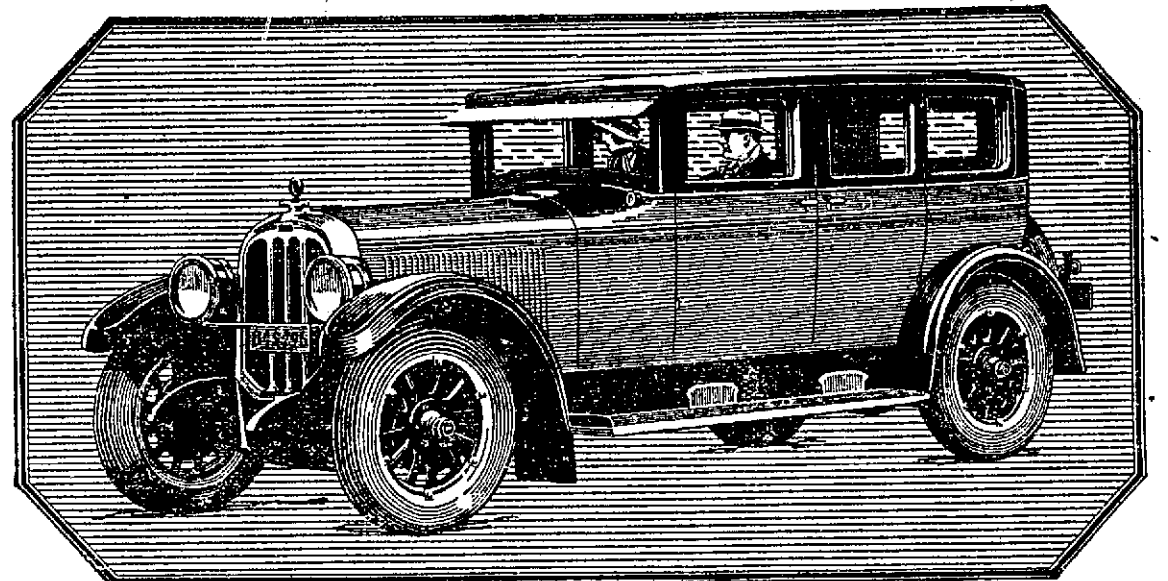

More than fifty ladies were in attendance to enjoy the day's session, which closed with two piano numbers by Miss Lucile Vail, "To The Morning" by Godard and "Pre-lude," Chopin.

FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD FOR CATCHING FRUIT STEALERS

A reward of $50 was paid by the San Dimas Fruit Exchange for information which led to the arrest and conviction of a fellow named Giddings of Los Angeles who had been stealing fruit in the San Dimas district.

The growers are determined to put a stop to the stealing of fruit from the groves, and it will not only help the community and save some grower from loss, but it might also put $50 in your pocket if you stop and investigate any suspicious actions of non-residents who park their cars or trucks alongside of a grove.—San Dimas Press.

What It Does

tells what it is!

PERFORMANCE is the one thing that tells the inside story of an automobile—any automobile. What a car can do tells what the car is, underneath the gleam of paint and fine feathers.

Aside from the appealing beauty of the 1926 Chandler, and the tempting lowness of price, performance is the thing that is causing the great momentum in Chandler sales.

Chandler has shown the world what it is by winning the annual Automobile Race up the slopes of Pikes Peak; by breaking climbing records on Mt. Washington, Mt. Diablo and the Continental Divide; by averaging 86.9 miles an hour for 1000 on the track at Culver City.

On January 5th, at Muroc Lake, California, a Chandler covered a mile in 31.1 seconds—in other words, at the rate of 115.3 miles per hour!

Chandler's famous Pikes Peak Motor certainly has the power. Chandler new body designs certainly reflect richness and style. Chandler's perfected chassis certainly has a great advantage with its "One Shot" push-a-plunger system of centralized lubrication.

See the new Chandler—then see what it can do in traffic, on the open road, on hills that tilt steeply toward the sky!

"The Black Bird"
Comes to Covina

In the dual role which he plays in "The Black Bird," the attraction at the Covina theater tonight (Friday) and tomorrow, Lon Chaney has achieved one of the most difficult acting feats ever attempted by any actor. It is not difficult to realize this when it is understood that the dual role was accomplished without resorting to any false noses, whiskers or facial deformities of any kind. Chaney plays the part of an East End London crook, feared and sought by Scotland Yard, in one characterization, and the other role is that of the "Bishop of Limehouse," a kindly soul, loved and pitied by everyone on account of his deformities.

Sunday and Monday nights Viola
Dana and Robert Agnew will be featured in "The Great Love." Miss Dana is one of the most popular players in the cinema world.
Screen fans who like comedy and drama mixed should not miss seeing "Steel Preferred," to be shown on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.
"Western Pluck," in which Universal is starring Art Acord, is the picture to be shown Thursday evening.

San Dimas Lemon House Holds 26th Annual Meeting

Saturday, February 6th, the San Dimas Lemon association held its twenty-sixth annual meeting with quite an extensive program. The morning was given over to the business part of the meeting, which included the report of Manager Hobbs.
Mr. Hobbs reported that there had been shipped 272 cars for the season, which netted the grower $301,- 784.08. This was ten cars more than last year and was over $205,000
more money than was paid for 1923-24 crop. He reported that there had been 53 cars of culls sent to Corona
by the by-product plant.

There has been 7802 tons of culls sent to the by-product plant by this association, since the plant was started and the association has received over $61,000 for this cull fruit. This, of course, has not only paid this amount to the grower, but has saved the expense of hauling this class of fruit to the wash. This association owns one-seventeenth of the $250,000 by-product plant as well.

The association expense for the year was much lower this last year, due largely to the new grading and packing belt which was installed, thereby reducing the number of graders required to put out the same amount of fruit.

Mr. Harry Damerel, president of the association, gave a very complete report of the work of the directors for the year, which showed that considerable time and energy
had been spent by the board.

H. C. Foster gave a report of the San Dimas Fruit Exchange, stating that the returns for this year had been good, but were held down to a certain extent on account of the excessive amount of alfalfa decay which developed in this district, this alfalfa decay being caused by the cold weather which occurred in December, 1924.

W. A. Johnstone gave a very nice outline of the work being done by the county farm bureau and stated that he would like to see every lemon grower a member of that organization.

H. J. Ramsey, head of the field department of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, was called upon for a few remarks. He stated that the alfalfa decay had shown up heavier in this district this year than in any other locality and complimented the association on the efforts and accomplishments made in supporting this fruit. He also stated that this association had cooperated to the fullest extent with the sales department, living up to the lemon shippers' agreement. He said the present season would probably be one of the largest lemon years on record.

Mr. Rounds, of the county horticultural department, gave a very interesting outline of citrus culture.
He emphasized the following as the important factors in sizing up leumons: regularity of soil moisture, frost protection, application of proper fertilizers and keeping the trees free from pests and diseases. He stated that there were many experiments along these lines being carried on and stated that a great many things are being accomplished.

Mr. Hunter, assistant manager of the Fruit Growers' Supply company, presented the moving picture of the Sunnville lumber and box operation, showing the operation of the lumber business from the tree to the finished product. He stated that the amount of available timber belonging to the Fruit Growers' Supply company is sufficient to carry on operations for 75 or 100 years, and by that time the land now being cut over would have sufficient timber large enough to recut. He stated that if it were not for the Supply company having this timber, shippers would be paying almost double for box shooks.

Covina Actor Tells of Experiences in Movie Production

Mr. J. L. Matthews,
Editor of Covina Argus.
My Dear Mr. Matthews:
There were so many thrills for me
in the making of "Classified" that I could fill your paper—if you'd let me—with the story of that glorious seven weeks. I will try to pick out the highlights that might prove interesting.

Six weeks after I had taken a screen test for the part (which was five weeks and seven days after I had given up hope of getting it) a call came from the First National studio. One single sentence came to me over the wire, "When can you leave for New York?"

Within an hour after I had heard that magic question I had interviewed Frank Egan, secured a contract to play Corinne Griffith's brother in "Classified," and had begun to think of new clothes which would look all right on Fifth avenue.

I couldn't really believe I was on my way to New York until I lost sight of the orange groves. I think my state of coma lasted until I saw them again a month later.

Chicago depressed me, but the scenes of Ohio country that I saw from the Pullman window were beautiful beyond my wildest dreams.
And who could desire greater beauty than the Hudson river at 6 a.m.?

To put it bluntly, I think New York is the biggest hick town in the country. It has a corner on sticky heat and foreigners. Its redeeming feature is the theatrical productions
it offers.

Practically all of the exterior scenes of "Classified" were shot in New York. We had a dozen Irish cops on duty all of the time to keep the curious crowds from stampeding whenever a camera was set up. I think every kid in New York city played hockey while we were there.
When we were working on 1000th street they gathered by the thousands. They crawled all over our ears, yelled at us continually and,
by 2 a.m. they were throwing things.
A mattress, hurled from a roof,
barely missed Miss Griffith.

My first scene was shot at 2 a.m., after I had been in Gotham for ten days. The director bawled me out on my first move and the rowdy crowd set up a hearty cheer.

I must admit that my heart was beating like a trip hammer every time the camera crank was turned on me. The first time I saw myself on the screen I almost fainted. (I find this to be a common reaction among beginners on the screen.)
Corinne Griffith preserved the illusion that I have always had about her. She is a thoroughbred, a skilled actress, and a delightful person generally.

In fact, they are a great gang.
A spirit of good fun has been prevalent in each of the companies I have worked with. It is absolutely essential. The work is so nerve-wracking that an actor would soon go to pieces if he didn't try to get some fun out of it. But if any actor is constantly conscious of the importance of these movement he will give what is called a "wooden"
performance.

Several days were spent on filming some scenes at a breakfast table. In the heat of the summer we worked in a little set with a cook-stove going. I ate ten breakfasts and shaved as many times one day.
My work with a radio ran on for two weeks. I tore it apart daily during that time—in long shots, medium shots, and closeups. I know less about the instrument than I did before.

When the picture is "cut" these scenes seem flashy. The layman has no conception of the amount of labor and attention to detail that is given to a few hundred feet of film.

My most recent picture was with Mrs. Wallace Reid. In filming a story of pioneer days I was compelled to ride a horse steadily for days.
In Covina I was taught to walk BEHIND the animal. After several days of that picture even that exercise would have been discomfort-
ing.

The story called for a fight with the villain. We decided to do it right. I would rather get my arm broken in the filming of a picture than suffer a broken heart by hearing a titter in the audience during the screening of a picture. This particular fight took over two hours to film. We came out of it with some good bruises. On the screen it occupies a matter of seconds.

So it isn't all a bed of roses. It is mostly hard work. BUT—it is thrilling.

The kindly interest that my Covina friends have shown in my embryonic period in the picture business is gratifying. I wish to thank them all.

Sincerely yours,
CARROLL NYE.
